

DAUGHTERS ACCUSE MOTHER OF TRYING TO DESTROY HOMES

Declare She Lured One of Them from Husband and Offered Other $1,000 to Leave.

A mother who wrecked one daughter's home and sought to lure the other daughter from her husband of a month by an offer of $1,000, was denounced by her two children in Justice Brady's part of the Supreme Court to-day, when the divorce action of John D. Burns against his wife, Katherine, was called for trial. Neither daughter nor the mother appeared in court, their testimony being read into the record.

Mrs. Burns, who was living with her mother, Mrs. Rose Milton of No. 125 Washington street, Mount Vernon, at the time of the misbehavior alleged by her husband, made a confession for her husband, in which she said:

"I left my husband of my own free will and without any cause whatsoever on my part, but wholly upon the promises and enticements of my mother, Rose Milton, that she would support me, give me all the money and crosses I wanted and introduce me to fashionable young men, with whom I could have a better time than with my husband."

To corroborate Mrs. Burns' statements the testimony of Mrs. Rose Milton, her sister, was offered. Mrs. Milton is nineteen years old and lives with her husband, George, at No. 376 West Fifty-fifth street, Manhattan. The couple were married in May, 1911.

Mrs. Milton testified she heard her mother tell her sister to leave "that little runt, Burns," and come back home. Mrs. Milton also says she heard her mother advise Mrs. Burns to "throw the kid in an asylum, leave the runt and come back where she could have good times" with the mother's gentlemen friends. The child referred to is Vincent, two years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burns.

Mrs. Milton states that a month after her marriage, her mother came to her and told she would better leave Vincent and return to Mt. Vernon. Mrs. Milton offered "all sorts of inducements" to persuade her to abandon Vincent, she says, one of them being a standing offer of $1,000 any time she left him. Mrs. Milton states she is happily married, that her mother was responsible for "breaking up Kittle's home" and that she "no longer harbors the love and respect for her mother, a daughter should."

On the sworn statements of the two daughters, Justice Brady granted an interlocutory decree to Burns. The Court awarded custody of the child to the father.

Boomer Is Found Hanged.
A man who gave his name as George Allen rented a furnished room from Mrs. Henrietta Guntner, No. 31 East Twenty-sixth street, yesterday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and was found dead there this morning, a suicide by hanging. The initials in his hat, "G. D. A.," bore out in part his claim to the name of "George Allen," but his coat had the initials "H. R.," stitched on an inner pocket.
